Dallas Exposition Work Gets Underway

DALLAS, TEXAS, Aug.8.—Preparations for the Texts Centennial Exposition which opens here June 6 next year went into high gear with the coming of August. The turning point from planning on paper to actual construction was reached ths week and Centennial Park is alive with workmen clearing sites for the $15,000,000 worth of Exposition buildings which must go up during the next ten months.

The majority of the construction will be by contract and for the next three monthe bids will be advertised and contracts let at the rate of a new building every two weeks. The first of the year a dozen or more great building should be rising simultaneously.

Work has already started on the Administration Building which will house several hundred employees of the Exposition staff. This structure is adjacent to the main sates of the Exposition. It will be faced by many fountains and lily pools and its entrance hall will be decorated with huge murals typifying Texas history.

Plans have been approved for the State of Texas Building which will cost the state $1,200,000 to complete and excavation for the foundations of this structure, as long as two city blocks, will start in September. The designs for the Food Products Building and the Poultry Building, part of an Agricultural group which will cost $750,000 have also been approved and construction work on this important unit of the Exposition is to start without delay.

A civil center will be erected on 26 acres of property annexed to the south side of Centennial Park and will be an important feature of the Exposition. It is here that the $500,000 Art Gallery will be built by the city as the center of a building plan which includes an aquarium, a natural history museum, a horticultural building, a sports building, an amphitheatre for band concerts and a large artificial lagoon. The city is already receiving bids for some of the underground work incidental to its $3,500,000 Exposition building program.

George L. Dahl, architect, who heads the technical staff is now working on plans for the Petroleum and Gas Building which will house an oil show which will be a major Centennial industrial feature. Walter D. Cline, Managing Director of the Exposition, says that so far the exposition's program has been kept up to date and that everything will be in readiness for the opening as scheduled.

Black Light Given Demonstration at S.J.

An eerie ray of light, which is not visible but which makes perceivable in a luminous manner invisible objects, was demonstrated at the seventh international Convention of the Rosicrucian Order, AMORC, on July 20, at San Jose, California, relates Mrs. Albert Sigal of Menlo Oaks Drive, local Rosicrucian delegate who has just returned from the conclave. The black light demonstration was conducted in the light and physics laboratory of the Rose-Croix University of the Order by H. Spencer Lewis, Imperator of the society.

Black light is said to n ean essential phase of the lower portion of the solar spectrum, and has great penetrating powers but is absolutely harmless in nature. It is expected to be a great boon to medical science, it is declared, because it has the peculiar quality of making certain parts of a living organism luminous to the naked eye, and thus capable of being easily photographed. Unlike other ultra-violet rays, black light is not destrcctive to living tissue, regardless of the length of time living matter may be exposed to it.

Mrs. Sigal, further states, twelve countries and every state of the Union was represented at the conclave at which nearly eight hundred persons attended.

A night pageant with the participants flooded by colored lights in an oriental setting of an Egyptian colonnade, depicting by a mystical dance the esoteric principles of the Order, was the most colorful feature of the occasion.

The Convention was distinguished by a graduation ceremony of the first classes of summer students of the newly instituted Rose-Croix University. The six day meet concluded with the election of a new Grand Council of the Order for 1936.

Women of Moose to Attend Big Conclave

Several members of Redwood City chapter No. 601, Women of the Moose are planning on spending the latter part of the week in Oakland, where the California Moose Association will hold its second annual conclave. Plans have been completed for Redwood City Chapter to me well represented in the parade as well as at the banquet and luncheons in honor of the Grand Recorder, Katherine Smith, and other Supreme Lodge officials.

Miss Katherine Smith will personally give the Friendship Degree of the order. Grace Pence. Junior Past Regent received this last year in Long Beach and this year, Mrs. Mary Hall and Mrs. Hazel Rice will receive it according to present plans.

A group who recently joined the Mooseheart Alumni Association are Mrs. Clara Groce, senior regent, Grace Pence, junior past regent, Elizabeth Staples, junior regent, Rose Pearson, chaplain, and Mary Neikirk, recorder. Mrs. Pearson is chairman of this association in Redwood City and is urging all officers and committee chairmen to join as the money raised in this way is used to help the Mooseheart graduate either until they find positions or to help them on to institutions of higher education.

According to S. P. Agent Joseph Veverka, twelve or thirteen cars carrying horses from the horse show here will leave some time on Sunday in a special train for Stockton, making the run in a little over three hours. The horses go to the San Joaquin county fair.

It is reported that City Clerk Fannie I. Kurtz will journey south to the San Diego Exposition some time next week. It is well worth seeing.

County Debt $82 For Every Person

Los Angeles, Aug 3.—The people of San Mateo county owed a bonded debt for state, county, school and district purposes of $82 for each man, woman and child in the county, or a total of $7,226,612 as at June 30, 1934, according to a study of the state and local bonded debt of California counties, recently completed by California Taxpayers' association. Of the total per capita debt $41.56 was for county and district bonds.

Taxpayers of twelve California counties owed a bonded debt per capita for state and local government purposes of over $100. These counties were San Francisco with a per capita debt of $274.94; Los Angeles, $170.63; San Diego, $164.41; Sacramento, $144.65; Riverside, $131.97; Colusa, $127.63; Orange, $114.79; Fresno, $110.18; Santa Barbara, $109.68; San Joaquin, $107.61; Contra Costa, $105.14, and Alameda, $102.77.

Mono and Trinity counties showed the lowest debt per capita of the counties of the state with a debt of $25.35; next lowest was Amador with a debt of $25.87; Pluma, $26,-06; Tuolumne, $27.56; Sierra, $27.70, and Mariposa $28.30. Only seven counties showed a bonded debt for state and local governments of less than $30 per capita.

Recent Lynching Brings State Record To 42

Precedent for the lynching of Clyde L. Johnson near Yreka last week by a mob, infuriated over his killing Dunsmuir's Police Chief Jack Daw, has been set by 41 similar episodes in California history. In the Gold Rush days many more lynchings are mentioned, although no effort was made to record them.

Commenting on the state's most recent lynching, Governor Frank Merriam said, "Lynching or the taking of human life without due process of law always is to be deplored.

"Especially is that true in California where justice has been quite evently administered and the courts generally have seen that justice is accorded to all parties appearing before them."

He added that it was "a blot on the fair name of California."

In answer to this statement, District Attorney James W. Davis of Siskiyou said that although justice should be allowed to take its course, "courts who base their pleas upon trivial technicalities lead directly to mob violence."

He said the lynching was evidence that the public want less red tape and quicker process of justice.

Most spectacular early-day extra-legal hanging was the 1856 execution of James P. Casey, owner of the San Francisco Times and Charles Cora, gambler. The two were dragged from jail by vigilantes, quickly tried by vigilantes and strung up on an improvised scaffold. There was loud approval from the mob.

Beginning in 1883 and ending in 1895, there was at least one lynching a year in this state.

The largest mass lynching ever seen in this state took place in 1901, when Calvin Hall, 72, his three sons and a son-in-law were hanged from the Pitts River Bridge in Modoc County. The gentlemen in question had been annoying inhabitants for several years with petty thievery and horse-stealing.

In 1920 three suspected gangsters from San Francisco's "Howard Street Gang" were captured at Santa Rosa, but not until after they had killed three officers. A well organized lynching crew broke into the jail and strung up the bandits.

The most recent lynching until the Yreka affair was that of two kidnappers at San Jose, which took place in 1933. The kidnappers had killed Brooke Hart, San Jose college youth whom they had abducted.

50,000 Copies Of Booklet To Give Out

That is the exact issue of a large size and beautiful (non-advertising) booklet just published and released for distribution by the California Mission Trails Association, Ltd., with headquarters at Atascadero, California, according to a statement by Dr. Victor Ward, president of the association. "Definiate arrangements," the statement says, "have also been made for a permanent office connection in Los Angeles, from where distribution of these booklets will be made at fixed intervals to one hundred and sixteen official travel and information bureaus within greater metropolitan Los Angeles."

In the opinion of Dr. Ward, "There will be a tremendous demand for this booklet as evidenced by the fact that the management of the Central Coast Counties exhibit at San Diego has requested an initial shipment of 10,000, and from conclusions reached after scanning the reports of responsible agencies which show that tourist traffic over the Coast Highways traversing California's Mission Trails area, the scenic route, will this year not only equal the all-time high record set in 1930, but in all probability surpass it."

"Unquestionably, the tourist and vacationist is the vital element in the development of the Mission Trails territory, the eight central coast counties between San Francisco and Los Angeles. They are coming here now because of past advertising, and if we want to perpetuate the annual coast income derived from tourists—our state's third largest source of revenue—and keep them coming, then continued advertising, year in and year out is absolutely necessary," was Dr. Ward's comment, and added, "That no section of America, or elsewhere, is more justified in advertising its phenomenal attractions of historic, scenic and recreational interest, than the people within this wonderland of ours." Over 10,000 individual requests have come to the office of the California Mission Trails for literature during the past eight months, which is the first time in the history of the California Mission Trails Association that requests have poured in from every state in the Union and foreign countries by the thousands.

The book is a real work of art, and among other points of interest mentions Menlo Park. It outlines the coast highway and its missions, and a copy of it should be in the hands of everyone who intends to visit the "Golden State" of the West.

Politics And Civil Service

Last November the people of California, tired of politics and favoritsm in their government, passed a constitutional amendment blanketing several thousand state employes into the California civil service system, a system designed to eliminate politics and to give people jobs on a basis of competence, instead of on a basis of political affiliation and pull.

That the enlargement of the civil service system, as provided in the amendment, has not accomplished the things its sponsors and the public had intended it to, has been brought out in a State Senate committee investigating of the new setup.

In addition to passing a written examination, applicants must take an oral test. These oral tests, according to the Senate committee report, are the deciding factor in getting jobs. The reason for this is, of course, than an informal discussion will bring out the applicant's tie-ins with the boys on the inside.

Senator Henry McGuinness found the following to be one of the questions asked in an exam: "Is it more important to work hard or to depend upon influential friends for advancement?" The correct answer as, "To depend on friends."

This answer is correct at the present time.

It's not that political friendship should be held against the applicant. But they shouldn't be the deciding factor in his getting a job.

Just like other large organizations and industries—only more so—the state government has grown to the point where it needs people fitted for highly specialized jobs to take care of its various departments. No matter how good a politician a man is, or how many friends he has in government service, he may be entirely unfitted, say, to fill the position of road engineer for which he is applying.

Politics can do a lot of things, including financing big projects, but it can't efficiently build them. Can you imagine politicians making the actual plans for the Golden Gate Bridge or the All-American Canal?

The public has found that it needs a good civil service system here in California. The people have demanded that such a system be established. They must keep on demanding it.

CAPITOL COMMENT

ONE MAN'S OPINION
By Graham Berry
Recorder Correspondent at Sacramento

The Board of Equalization, the oldest board or commission in California government, is suffering from one of the worst cases of jitters in its 65-year-old career. At present there appear to be two sides to the story, no dis-interested arbitrator having yet shifted the politics from the facts.

Trouble apparently started last January. State Controlle Ray L. Riley, ex officio member, managed to upset the powerful Richard Collins-Fred E. Stewart combination, who have dictated Board policies for many years. By winning the vote of Miss Orfa Jean Schontz, new Board member, and of John C. Corbett, Riley, already holding several state government executive positions, found himself elected chairman by three votes to two.

Collins, who had held the position for nearly 20 years, was naturally provoked. There was nothing, however, that he and Stewart could do at the time. They were forced to retire from power—for seven months.

During that time certain policies were adopted which the minority did not like. Chief among these was liquor rule enforcement. Riley insisted liquor be divided between the Equalization Board and the police. Stewart, of course, wanted the Board to have exclusive control.

When Stewart's henchmen began to be replaced by Riley appointees, the minority took another black eye. There were other disagreements. The sum total of all this trouble was to widen the gap between the two factions. The stage was set for a climax.

When the chief actor, Riley, left for Mexico, the production manager, Stewart, decided that a new hero was needed for the role of Board head. An election was held. Miss Schontz, who had swung the election for Riley seven months ago, and who has learned a great deal about the Board of Equalization since then, played the part of the woman—she changed her mind. With that change came the return to power of the Stewart-Collins regime.

Riley hurried back from he land of revolutions to try and start one at Sacramento. He claims that he has plenty to reveal this week in the way of a political "smoke screen," the term he uses to describe the State Senate Committee investigaing he civil service setup. He says that the committee's investigation of Miss Schontz's Los Angeles district was directly connected with her change of mind.

As for the public, which has to be directly interested even in the squabbles of "public servants," it must wait until he tumult and shouting dies before it can know the straight of the matter.

Bible selections will include the following passage from I Cor. 2: 12, 13: "Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God. Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth; comparing spiritual things with spiritual."

Passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which read as follows: "The false evidence of material sanse contrasts strikingly with the testimony of Spirit. Material sense lifts its voice with the arrogance of reality and says: I am wholly dishonest, and no man knoweth it. . . . . Spirit, bearing opposite testimony, saith: I am Spirit. Man, whose senses are spiritual, is my likeness. . . . I am the substance of all, because I AM THAT I AM" (pp. 252, 253).

Motor Vehicle Department After Drunken Drivers

Declaring he would devote his administration to an attempt to make the highways of California safer for the motorist and to provide efficient registration service to the public, R. Ray Ingels, former senator and highway commissioner entered upon his new duties as director of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Regarding his plans he said:

"Governor Merriam has expressed deep concern to me on several occasions concerning the frightful loss of life from motor accidents and has indicated his desire for he to determine if any steps are possible to reduce it.

"As director of the Department of Motor Vehicles I shall devote myself particularly to this task giving special attention to ridding the highways of drunken, reckless and careless drivers."

Ingels was silent concerning possible changes in personnel of the department except to say he would seek to operate on as economical a basis as is compatible with efficiency and good service to the public.

HUNDREDS AND HUNDREDS of thrifty people have compared costs and decided that the train, at 2¢ a mile and less, is the best travel buy of the day. Trains travel swiftly and safely over the smoothest highway yet invented. Why don't you try the train? You'll save on travel — be comfortable, too.

Here are examples of the very low fares now in effect every day:

To	One Way	Roundtrip
SANTA CRUZ	$ 1.00	$ 1.80
SAN FRANCISCO	.55	.87
LOS ANGELES	8.91	14.00
MONTEREY	1.87	3.37
SAN JOSE	.37	.65
PORTLAND	12.37	21.50

— good in coaches and chair cars. On overnight trips, in tourist sleeping cars (plus small berth charge) to points where such cars are operated. Fares good in standard Pullmans are low in cost, too. Air-conditioned service to many points.

Aunt Martha Says:

Most of the human race take after their ancestor, Noah. They spend a lot of time trying to find a firm place to land on. Then they think their troubles will all be over. I remember Noah thought his soul could rest in peace after it stopped raining, but right after that he had family trouble. His boys got to fighting. Things don't stay calm for any of us very long at a time in this world. The only peace we will find is that we can make inside our selves. Then all we can do is to learn a good stroke and swim.

TELLS HOW BANKS AIDED PROGRESS

Economist Describes the Ways Local Institutions Have Contributed to Business Growth

OMAHA, Nebr.—Privately owned banking, despite its faults, has served America well, William A. Irwin, Professor of Economics, Washburn College, Topeka, Kansas, declared in a recent address here on "Banking in a Changing World."

"Under the leadership of individuals banking has helped to bring this country to a foremost place in economic development among the nations of the world," he said. "The small community has been developed by the individual bank. The frontiers of America have been pushed forward by the help and counsel of the individual banker. The shocks of wars and depressions in a century and a half have been withstood with the assistance of the individual banker.

"It may be that we have reached a tide in the affairs of America when new methods are needed. It may be that we have come to a point where the individual should be submerged for 'the greatest good of the greatest number.'

If Change Is Necessary

"It may even be that complete centralization of the banking system has become an economic necessity in our complicated social life. But the banker ought to be satisfied that these things are so before he should give up his fight for the system we have known. We came to greatness under that kind of banking; we should not give it up without unmistakable proof of the absolute necessity of such a change."

Professor Irwin said that the proposal which has been advanced for co-ordinating banking operations in the national interest under "a 'Supreme Court' for banking is typically American and ought to have the most serious consideration of those elements which are clamoring for political control, which is typicall un-American." It is not wise, he said, to oppose change as such, but that bankers should "see to it that change, if and when it does come, shall preserve all that is good in the past and stick as closely as possible to the American pattern of things."

Banking is properly a conservative profession, he pointed out, and should cling to practices and principles of banking that are, and always have been, funudamentally sound.

"It is to its credit that so large a group of its members never faltered, even in boom times, in their allegiance to those sound principles," he declared. "We probably owe our salvation from chaos to that fact."

Court Rnling Sought On New State Tax

Are various California state, district and county bonds exempt from the new state income tax?

It is practically inevitable that the State Supreme Court will be asked this, according to Attorney General U. S. Webb, who has been giving the matter considerable thought.

In planning the income tax bill, the legislature intended to exempt interest on state and municipal corporation bonds. Attorneys have expressed grave doubt, however, that this purpose has been accomplished.

Financial experts say that there are over $900,000,000 of state and other political and other subdivisions' tax exempt bonds outstanding in California. The decision, according to John A. Sinclair, an attorney studying the situation, will involve between 40 million and 50 million dollars of income.

The new income tax law, under which citizens will be taxed upon their 1935 incomes, includes among "exemptions, which this state is prohibited from taxing under the constitution or laws of the United States of America or under the constitution of this state."

In 1902 the people amended the constitution to provide "all bonds hereafter issued by the state of California, or by any county, municipal corporation, or district within said state shall be exempt from taxation."

Approved expenditures for various SERA projects and activities in California's 58 counties totaled $128,995,305.50 since its inception last year, it was revealed recently in a report rendered by Frank Y. McLaughlin, state works progress administrator.

Santa Clara County received $2,431,426.02.

Los Angeles County's approved expenditures led all other counties in the state with a total of $45,110,264.84, while San Francisco was second with $14,075,880.74. Alameda County ran third with $10,011,666.24, and San Diego fourth with $8,010,674.89. Santa Barbara County was fifth with a total of $6,599,231.81.

Other counties with approved expenditures of $1,000,000, or more, were: Contra Costa, $1,173,531.36; Fresno, $1,810,302.14; Imperial, $1,645,807.79; Kern, $1,369,326.67; Orange, $2,492,926.43; Riverside, $3,617,757.58; Sacramento, $3,173.685.46; San Joaquin, $1,821,397.81.

Steps for the outright purchase of between 22,000,000 and 24,000,000 pounds of surplus, better grade California prunes as a means of clearing the market for the oncoming 1935 crop were undertaken today by the Surplus Commodities Division of the State Emergency Relief Commission.

Officials of the SERA estimate that a governmental expenditure of more than $800,000 will be necessary to clear the market for the 1935 crop. Employment of a large number of men now on relief will be necessary to handle the holdover supply, SERA officials said. Prune growers, too, will benefit from the new supply of cash made available to them, it was pointed out.

Redding—There's no figuring out a mule. John Nachreiner dismounted frim his mule on a lonely road to pick up his hat. The animal kicked him, fracturing his leg. After spending an hour regaining his seat in the saddle, he rode three miles for aid. When he arrived at the Black Bear Mine, the mule refused to allow anyone to come near him. John finally rode the animal between two trees and grabbed hold of a branch, letting the mule walk out from under him.

State Controller Ray L. Riley's seven-month rule over the State Board of Equalization has ended. While Riley was in Mexico, the Board met and voted to reinstate R. E. Several scientists, along with a five-ton truck loaded with apparatus will trek to the 14,000 summit of Pike's Peak, Colorado, to take photographs of tracks made by atomic particles blasted from nuclei by cosmic rays.

For the third time in 15 years, a group of California citizens took the law in their own hands. Breaking into the jail at Yreka, a small, well organized group took youthful C. L. Johnson from his cell, put a rope around his neck and strung him to a tree. Johnson was the slayer of Police Chief Jack Daw of Dunsmuir.

As the state rested its case against eight marine workers, who are defendants in the Patterson dynamite conspiracy trial, the defense sought an acquittal verdict which was denied. Meanwhile warrants have been issued against two of the eight defendants, charging them with theft of dynamite from a San Rafael quarry.

"Is it more important to work hard or to depend upon influential friends for advancement?" This was an actual question asked a candidate in a civil service examination. The correct answer, according to Senator Henry McGuinness who is a member of the State Senate committee investigating alleged abuses of the new state civil service setup, is that it is more important to depend on friends. After investigating various state offices, the committee recommends revision of civil service regulations.

The opium seizure was the largest in the history of this port.

With a newly contracted group of 12 players who Warners feel have starring possibilities, studio intends to shove the dozen players immediately to the front in important assignment, instead of giving them the slow buildup as has been the method of all studios in the past.

Dozen hopefuls are Warren Hull, Lynn Acker, Anita Kerry, Eddie Acuff, James Melton, Everett Marshall, Don Ross, Jane Froman, June Travis and Mary Treen.

Studio has decided there is little or no advantage in a long procession of small parts in order to get a player started. Contention is that under this method fans lose interest in players. Starting them off with a strong push by giving them important assignment means that their personalities, if arresting, will immediately receive the approval of fans and their launching is a success. Under this method, a player makes good or flops within six months.

Following the first few pictures, they are ready to hold top assignments in B pictures. A year of the small features and they are ready for star spotting.

At least this is the theory and the newly contracted 12 will be the laboratory.
